

*Transport Policy and Planning
Dissertation Awardee*

 · 2012–2013 ·

Lee Ming Fan

(full-time)

I am extremely honored and grateful to receive the MATPP Dissertation Prize. I would like to thank the Departments for this recognition of my efforts spent on writing my dissertation. It was not easy for me to complete the dissertation but I did learn a lot by gathering information, collecting and analyzing data. I would like to take this opportunity to express my deepest gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. P. C. Lai for her invaluable advice and guidance given to me in completing this dissertation. Without her it would be hard for me to receive this prize.

This recognition has reinforced my belief that hard work is rewarded. Paying full attention and getting yourself well-prepared are definitely essential. You can never write a good dissertation if you just start working one month before the deadline for submission. Just plan ahead for your working schedule so as to make sure you can have enough time to focus on your dissertation. At first you may find this is an impossible task, but after devoting all your time and effort to it like me, you will find it is a special experience that gives you great satisfaction. I hope this prize will encourage other students to work hard to achieve their goals.