(part-time)

The award is such a big encouragement to my studies that I would like to share my contentment and extend my heartfelt gratitude to the Judging Panel of Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport in Hong Kong and The Women's Foundation for their recognition to my efforts, and to all my teachers, department staff and groupmates for their full support, valuable guidance and sincere advices which I would not be able to have such achievement otherwise.

My first year studies in MATPP have been so exciting and rewarding that I have always been bombarded by new thoughts and challenged by enlightening arguments from people of different backgrounds. Yet it is a demanding process, especially when you dip into the pool of research materials and lose the direction! My little sharing is always to start your research and reading earlier - at the beginning of the semester or even before it. Brilliant idea or invincible argument can't be formed overnight, but does require extensive literature review, thorough and often iterative analysis, and discussion with different people.
